84 DISSENTER

It's Not the Quantity, It's the Quality

Dissenter 1983-84

The early and middle years of the seventeenth century were times of non-conformity and dissent. Both grandfathers of John and Charles Wesley were among the ejected clergy of 1662. However, Samuel Wesley preferred the ministry of the establishment and was, from 1695 to his death, rector of the rough country parish of Epworth. Nor did his son John have any intention or desire to break with the Church of England.

When North Carolina Wesleyan College was founded, a committee, chaired by Dr. Edwin Harwood, was formed to name the yearbook of this new college. It seemed appropriate in those early years of the sixties (also a time of non-conformity and dissent) to reach back into the ancestry of the Wesleys for a term that would reflect the feistiness and determination of the young college. Thus — "The Dissenter."

Editor

Patricia Bowers

The production of a college annual is a prodigious task. Through the Fall and Spring semesters, Patricia worked to create the theme and design of the 1983-84 Dissenter.

When the load became too great, a number of other persons came forward to complete the process.

We are grateful for all those who gave much of themselves to this task.

"For each age is a dream that is dying, or one that is coming to birth."

The Fountain of Tears
Arthur O'Shaugnessy

We are all unique individuals with differing ideas and dreams. Yet, we also hold something in common — a desire to build our dreams into realities and make them work.

We came to Wesleyan to begin work on that dream. We laid down foundations and looked for ways to prepare for a life in which this dream and others to follow would be real possibilities.

At times the expectations we had for ourselves (and others had for us) seemed too high and out of reach. We struggled and sometimes failed. In the end, self discipline, determination, and dedication got us through.

Now we know that achievements begin with dreams and dreams come true when we have purpose, heart, mind, will, and soul.

We came with some of these qualities and found others. We improved on them and still have a long way to go. But we are on the way.

If You Can Dream It, You Can Achieve It.

“The purpose of a College is the production of persons who are both more civilized and more civilizing.”
Elton Trueblood

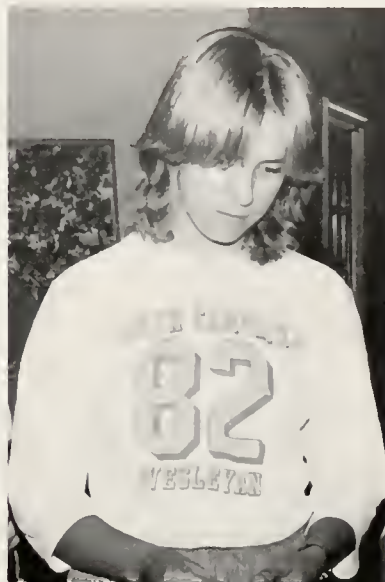

Of course, student life is person-centered and thrives on good times.

But underneath is a growing pride and the building of friendships and community.

For those of us who graduate, it is time for new dreams. We have had our season in the sun. We leave a legacy of trying our best to be both civilized and civilizing.

These were good times.

Orientation: Go For It!

It all begins with orientation; a time of registering, moving in, testing, and confusion. It is also a time of anticipation and anxieties concerning academics, athletics, and peer relationships. Most of all, it is a time of saying goodbye to home, family, and a former lifestyle; and of saying hello to a whole new chapter in your life. And while graduation seems light-years away, we are family and, with the help of our friends, commencement will come all too soon. The stage is set, so GO FOR IT!

ANNUAL FUND RAISER

"A Day For Wesleyan '84"

North Carolina Wesleyan College's annual fund raiser, "A Day for Wesleyan '84," held September 20 in Rocky Mount and neighboring communities, netted $307,720 for the college.

This figure compares with the "A Day for Wesleyan '83" total of $305,123.

The final record-setting tally was announced during a victory celebration for campaign volunteers at the home of Jack A. Laughery, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Hardee's Food Systems, Inc., and general campaign chairman. "I'm very excited and thrilled with the fact that we've exceeded last year's pledges," Laughery exclaimed following the final announcement. "This total reflects the community's support of the college; it's obvious that they embrace Wesleyan, as they have proven in the past as well as tonight."

The final tally was the culmination of the efforts of 163 volunteers in raising funds for the college in Rocky Mount, Nashville, Tarboro, Pinetops, Whitakers and Enfield. Funds raised help underwrite current operating expenses of Wesleyan.

The one-day fund raiser began early in the morning of September 20 with a kick-off breakfast in the college cafeteria. Following the breakfast Laughery announced that $197,695 had been raised in advance calls by volunteers.

Volunteers reported the results of their morning calls during a report-in luncheon where a total of $238,695 was announced.

Following the announcement of the final tally, which was preceded by a last minute flurry of pledges, Richard B. Dollar, vice president for development and campaign director, said, "North Carolina Wesleyan College is overwhelmed with the tremendous vote of confidence expressed by the community who gave so generously to make this campaign a success. This could never have happened without the dedicated leadership provided by Jack Laughery and the entire Hardee's organization."

"The executive committee, which included J. Dewey Weaver, Jr., Betsy B. Strandberg, J. Claude Mayo, Jr., John J. Ferebee, William H. Kincheloe, Gene L. Lewis and B. Mayo Boddie, Sr., set the pace with their thorough planning. "Of course," Dollar added, "the success of the campaign was dependent upon our volunteer force. Our 163 volunteers accepted their challenge with enthusiasm and carried out their mission."

The "A Day for Wesleyan" fund raiser is the kick-off for the college's annual fund. About 25 percent of the college's operating budget is generated through funds provided by the private sector.

KICK-OFF BREAKFAST — Campaign volunteers gathered in the college cafeteria for a kick-off breakfast before making calls for Wesleyan throughout the day.

VOLUNTEER — Dr. Lyle Willhite, professor of business administration, served as an "A Day for Wesleyan '84" volunteer, as did many other college faculty, staff and administrators. Shown is Dr. Willhite being pinned with a name tag by Rachel Dormagen, manager of the College Store.

PERFORMING — The Rocky Mount Community Band entertained volunteers during the victory celebration.

The creation of our Chapel

A place.

On February 25, 1982, ground was broken for the Leon Russell Chapel. Standing as a tribute to the dedication and service of one who was a founder and trustee of the college in its early years, the chapel will be completed by Fall Term 1983. This new facility includes a space adaptable to a variety of worship settings, a reception room, an office for the campus minister, and the Rena Perry Blackburn Prayer Room. Sliding glass panels open to a courtyard bordered by a pierced brick wall.

A center.

Standing apart from other campus buildings, the chapel will be the outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace earnestly desired and sought as qualities of campus life. Its purpose is to be a vital center where the word of God is so read and preached and the sacraments so administered that attitudes and values are molded and lives are transformed. It is intended to be the source from which flows inspired and appropriate Christian witness.

An experience.

As the center for religious activities, the chapel will provide experiences through which students may participate in the corporate life of the church along with the personal and private expressions of faith. Students and all others of the campus community may come to pause and pray, to meditate on meanings and feelings, to discuss and share; all will have the opportunity to experience the grace of God and celebrate life as it is revealed in Christ.

"Founders Day '83"

Compared to the nation's oldest colleges, what are the twenty-seven years of this College? The blinking of an eye. An infant swept along in a basket in the educational stream. A youth groping and growing.

But to those whose dream of a college for Rocky Mount began a third of a century ago, this campus and classrooms, these professors and students represent the achievement of that dream. Without their vision, without their patience, without their strength there never would have been this College.

They gave generously and often at great sacrifice. They labored and prevailed against incredible difficulties and barriers.

They founded a College.

They would understand "To Dream It Is To Achieve It" in a manner that we can only dimly grasp. We honor them for their efforts and their inspiration.

The afternoons of Homecoming Weekend are full of events which include many people. The soccer game takes place on Saturday afternoon. The Homecoming Court is presented during the half-time of this game. Each of the nominees and their escorts are introduced.

FUN and FOOD

Not only do Homecoming participants have a chance to behave like pigs, they gorge themselves like pigs, also. The pig pickin' was held at North Green Country Club this year. The pig was prepared and served by Gardner's Bar-B-Que. This is a time for good food, good friends, and good times.

The Alumni picnic is held on Saturday afternoon. This is a good time for former students to renew their friendships and reminisce of years gone by.

The student and alumni softball game which is also held on Saturday afternoon brings together the old and the new and the in between. These events add special flare to the Homecoming week.

The Homecoming Dance has always been an event attended by many students and alumni, as well as the faculty and staff of the College. They enjoy renewing old acquaintances as well as making new ones. The dance is one of the highlights of Homecoming Weekend which adds excitement to the other events.

The announcement of the Homecoming King and Queen is the climax of the evening followed by a dance to the Queen's favorite song. The students as well as faculty and staff help make this a night to remember for all who are there.

The lighter side of WESLEYAN

Wesleyan offers a variety of activities for its students. On campus and off, students find places and spaces to relax and enjoy themselves.

The academic side of campus life can provide amusement as well as serious study.

For some, it can even be confusing. All in all, college life can be beneficial and fun for those who are willing to get involved.

The Wesleyan Singers

The beauty of the small college is that you don't have to be a music major to sing, a theatre major to act, or a student to do either.

At Wesleyan, students, faculty, and even town people combine talents to produce concerts and plays.

If it is the role of the liberal arts (and we believe it is) to educate people to what is beautiful or not, tasteful or not, then the performing arts at Wesleyan are truly an essential element to our life here.

FACULTY CANDIDS

Nothing in the life of the college surpasses the importance of good teaching. We came with few ideas about who we were and where we were going. Our Professors helped us shape our dreams into achievable goals. Through problems, tests, questions, discussions, and yes, debates and disagreements, they have helped us see what they have seen — of their field, of life, of meaning, and of truth.

Dr. Leverett Smith looks over lecture notes.

Dr. Paul deGategno gets into it.

Dr. Marshall Brooks meets student teachers on the patio.

Terry Ward checks out figures with Mark Phillips.

Dr. David Jones attacks an issue.

Wesleyan's second sorority has been active in all phases of college life since it was established in 1971 as a social sorority. The sorority stresses the importance of academic achievement and service to the college.

Pi Epsilon ΠΕ

Wesleyan's first sorority was founded in 1968. It's membership consists of women who have a "C" average or better and who are full-time students. Although it is a social organization, one of its prime purposes is service. Pi Epsilon has always been a small sorority in numbers, but big in heart.

Sigma Pi ΣΠ

Repeat after me . . .

Sigma Pi/Pi Kappa Omega, the college's first fraternity with national affiliation, is the most recent social fraternity on the Wesleyan campus. Their goal of promoting brotherhood and leadership is an on-going process. They also seek to promote lifetime friendship, Christian development, and general overall enthusiasm for Wesleyan student life.

Phi Beta Lambda ΦΒΛ (Business)

Phi Beta Lambda is a national business organization for all students interested in the world of business. The purpose of this organization is to provide opportunities for post-secondary students to develop vocational competencies for business and office occupations. Phi Beta Lambda is a part of the institutional program and, in addition, promotes a sense of civic and personal responsibilities.

Steve Felton, President

The Black Awareness at Wesleyan strives to provide activities which will enhance the awareness of the college community of black culture. This organization sponsors Black Awareness Week during which prominent speakers are invited to the campus. All students are invited to participate in the activities sponsored by this organization.

The curriculum of the College and classroom experiences support the primary reason for coming to college — the achievement of greater intellectual competency. The organizations on campus nourish an altogether different but equally important part of the student. They have provided ways for us to learn who we are and what we are capable of becoming. Our fraternities and sororities, clubs and organizations, Student Government, dramatics, music, and the wide variety of special interest organizations have given us the opportunity to test our capacity for leadership, to be good participants, and to confront all the issues and concerns that are generated when several or more people get together whether it be for social purposes, professional development, or intellectual interests.

Our organizations have made it easier to feel a sense of belonging and gave us the friendships and purposes that helped to enlarge our dreams.

Theatre and Music

In a day when careers and paying jobs seem to get all the attention, the theatre and music departments of Wesleyan pull us toward an interest in the performing arts and satisfy the creative itch for artistic achievement.

The Wesleyan College theatre produced "Noah," "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," and "Butterflies Are Free" — wonderful efforts that challenged the artists and delighted the audience.

Formal concerts, madrigals, recorder music, and band concerts were the offerings of the music department.

Bicycle Racing Club

The purpose of the Bicycle Racing Club is to promote and support the sport of bicycle racing. Membership is open to all Wesleyan students who are active in bicycle racing. The club's activities include recruiting bicycle racing enthusiasts as students at Wesleyan, training for and participating in regional and national bicycle races on the Wesleyan campus and speaking to civic and youth groups on bicycle racing and safety.

The 1984 Student Life Award

A Resolution

Whereas, The Black Awareness Club of North Carolina Wesleyan College has worked diligently to promote increased racial understanding and harmony during the 1983-84 school year; and

Whereas, The Black Awareness Club has labored long and hard to produce an interesting and high-quality set of activities during Black Awareness Month in February, 1984;

Therefore Be It Resolved, That we wish to thank and commend this group of individuals for their efforts on behalf of the students and the Wesleyan community and encourage them to continue these worthwhile activities in the future.

Passed unanimously by the North Carolina College Student Senate this 19th day of April, 1984.

Frederick R. Gilbert, President

In Recognition of Leadership

A Resolution

Whereas, James Gill has made a substantial contribution to student life on the North Carolina Wesleyan College Campus during the 1983-84 school year; and

Whereas, James Gill has provided valuable leadership for the college Jaycees, intramural sports, Black Awareness, Alpha Phi Alpha, and the Cheerleaders;

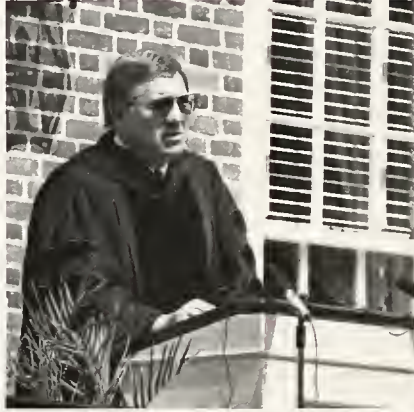

Therefore Be It Resolved, That we go on record to thank and commend James Gill for his tireless efforts on behalf of the students and to wish him Godspeed in his newly-chosen activities.

Passed unanimously by the North Carolina Wesleyan College Student Senate this 19th day of April, 1984.

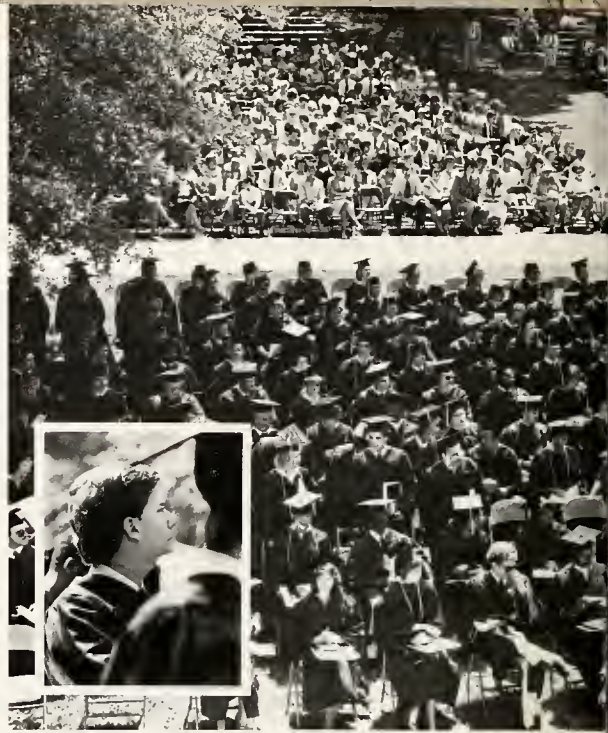

Frederick R. Gilbert, President

We made it!

Graduation – 1984

North Carolina Wesleyan College ended its 27th anniversary of the institution's chartering Saturday with the graduating of 188 seniors.

Students received their degrees during Wesleyan's Twenty-First Commencement Service. The Rev. Dr. John K. Bergland, executive vice president for the Office of Planned Giving of the Methodist Foundation, Inc. in Raleigh, served as commencement speaker.

"It is your day," Bergland told the graduates, "come from your education in the liberal arts with a grand respect for it . . . you are true professionals; not simply technicians . . . I want you to be prosperous in every way, but most importantly, prosperous beneath the sovereignty of God."

One-hundred and twenty-one students earned their bachelor of arts degree, 65 students earned their bachelor of science degree, and two students earned their science in technology degree.

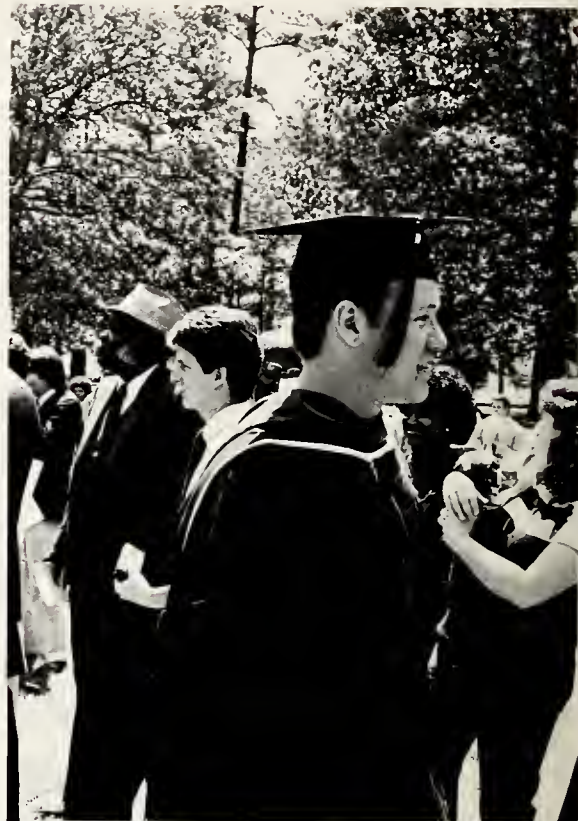

Dr. Lyle Wilhite, a trusted and beloved colleague, professor and friend to all participated in his last commencement exercise at Wesleyan. Dr. Wilhite retired May 31, 1984.

We Honor Faith That Seeks Life Whole

Whose hearts and minds unite in soul,
Whose freedom teaches self-control,
A gift which we inherit
Wesleyan, our Alma Mater,
Now we join with voices raised;
May thy name be blessed in singing,
And by grateful lives be praised.

This tassel is killing me!

Rusty gives farewell speech.

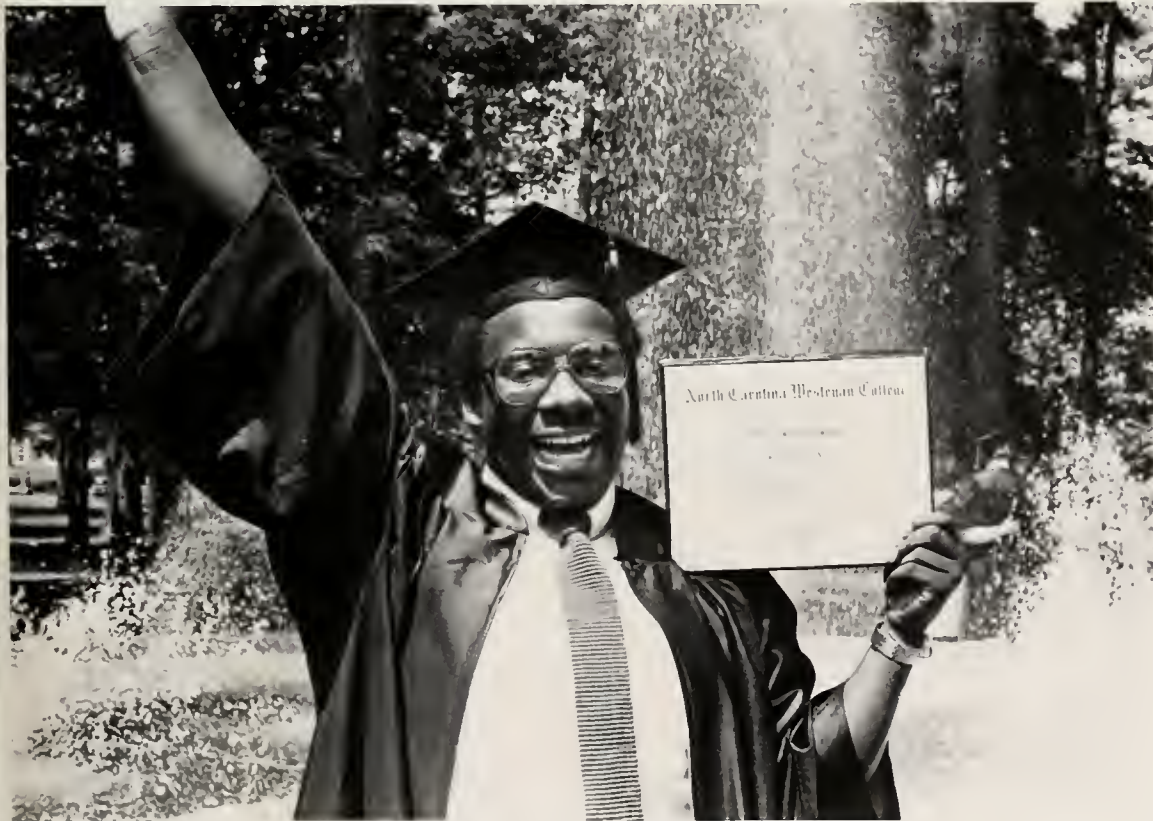

Where am I?

Proud father, proud son.

Mom, I finally graduated.

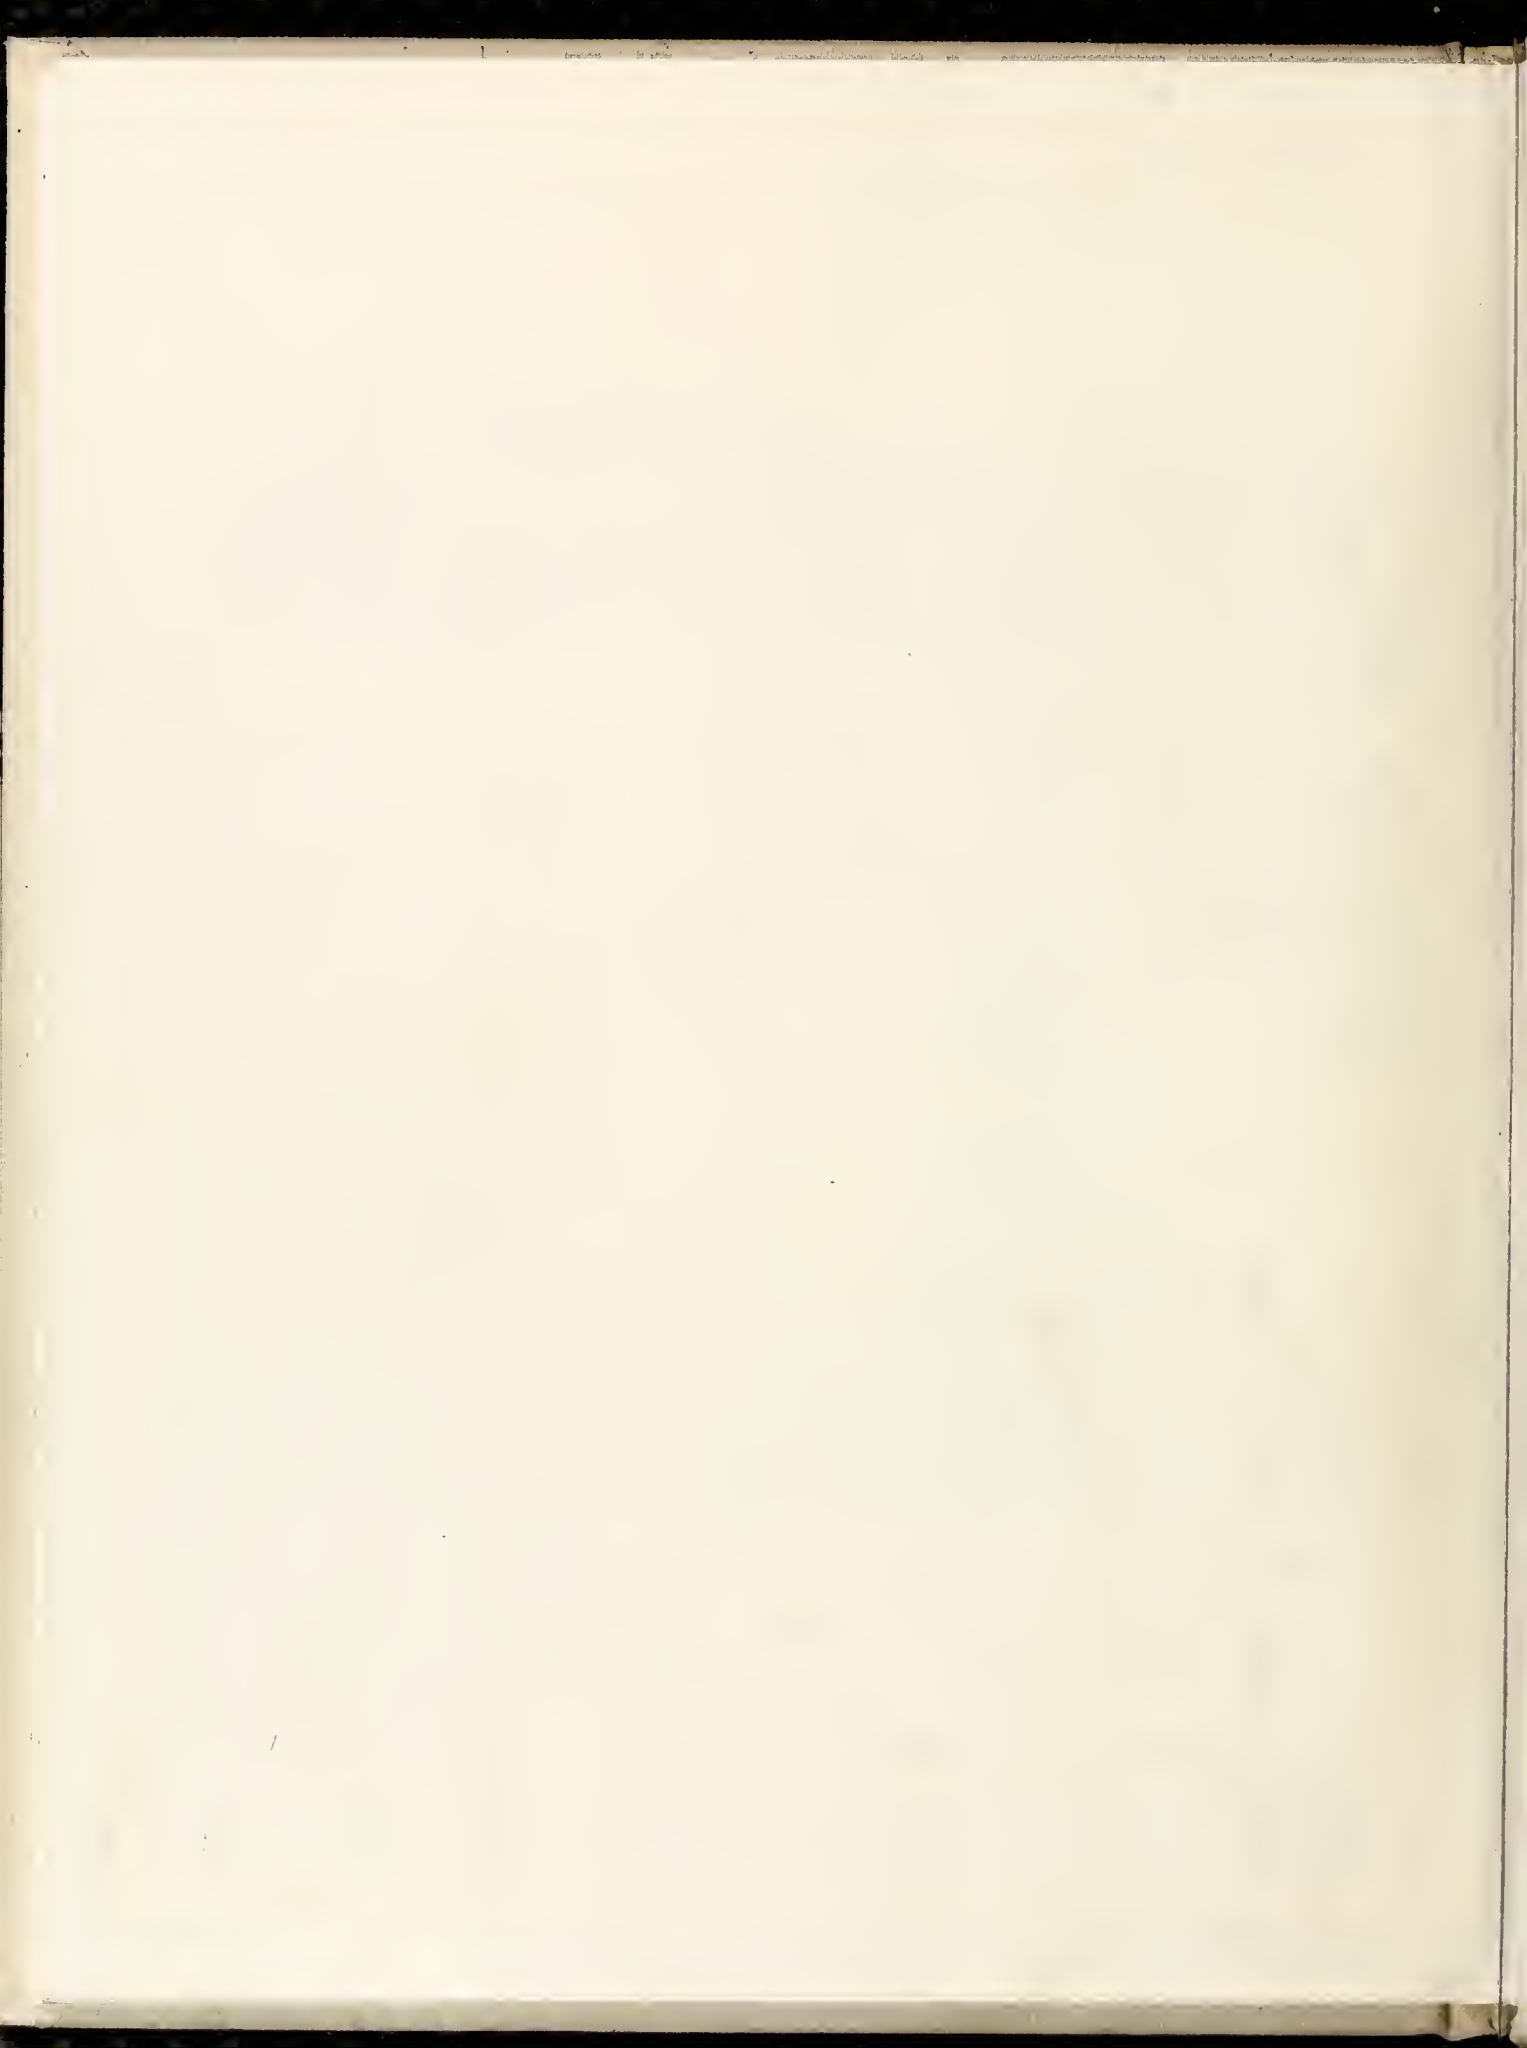

Now the good times begin.

The End is Only the Beginning

What do you do when the dream ends? Well, you start another. We were "confirmed in these unrivaled years of learning, laughter and tears."

In that confirmation we found a new sense of self, of "hope amid our fears", and a taste for new horizons. We know now we can make it.
